

GOVERNMENT BLANKETS NATION WITH PRICE AND WAGE CONTROLS TO HALT INFLATION; THE "FREEZE," HOWEVER, LEAVES LOOPHOLE FOR HIGHER FOOD, CLOTHING COSTS

"Stop-Gap" Order Traps Soaring Prices At Jan. 25th Level

WITH NO 'ROLL-BACKS'

Wages Subject to Adjustment Under Policy Still To Be Worked Out

By William J. Kerwin
INS Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — (INS) —

The government blanketed the nation with price and wage controls today to halt inflation—"Public Enemy No. 2" in the cold war—but the "freeze" leaves a loophole for still higher food and clothing costs.

The "stop-gap" order, proclaimed by defense mobilizers last night, trapped soaring wages and prices at their Jan. 25 level with no roll-backs, but wages will be subject to adjustment under a policy still to be worked out.

Rationing of consumer goods—the third feature of the drastic emergency controls employed during the last war—was held unlikely at this time.

Price Administrator Michael V. Disalle pointed out there is "a great sufficiency of consumer goods" throughout the country.

While the new controls were being announced it was learned that Rear Adm. John H. Hoover (ret.) had resigned as chief control.

Highlights of The Wage-Price Freeze

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — (INS) — These are the highlights of the new wage-price freeze:

Wages, and prices of most foods and some clothing were frozen temporarily as of midnight Thursday.

Some price hikes can be expected on clothing, and as much as five per cent on such foods as poultry, milk, eggs, vegetables, fresh fruits, corn and wheat.

Exempt under the order are rents, doctors' and dentists' fees, newspaper, radio, television, theater and advertising rates, insurance premiums and public utility rates.

A "flexible" wage formula is being drafted to permit "exceptions" and adjustments.

Rationing is not foreseen. Stabilization officials said there is "a great sufficiency of consumer goods."

Prices were frozen at the highest levels between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25, inclusive. Price officials hope to achieve some rollbacks later.

BRISTOL TRUST PLANS FOR A NEW DISPLAY

Lobby Space Assigned To Hunter-Wilson Co. and Gallagher & Burton

FOR NEXT TWO WEEKS

Harold E. Hanson, of Bristol Trust Company, announced today that Hunter-Wilson Distilling Co., Inc., and Gallagher and Burton, Inc., have been assigned the display space in the Bristol Trust Co. lobby for the weeks of January 29th and February 5th. He states that the above companies had dedicated their display to their employees.

The display has been built around a large photograph of the firm's bottling floor. This large picture is four feet high and 4½ feet long. The people shown on it are a little more than one-third life size. Two sides of the picture are framed by a large arrow which leads to a window cut into the display, where each of the various 22 sizes and brands produced at the plant are shown. A sequence of operations required to produce the finished product is shown by a series of ten small photographs mounted on the arrow.

Mr. Hanson said that the display points out that the name of Bristol is carried to the four corners of the earth by this company's products; that the local community benefits by having an industry with an annual payroll of over $1,000,000; the

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

A Senate committee in charge of Executive Department questions unanimously rejected the request of President Truman for sweeping war powers to reorganize the government.

Asian and Arab states are reported prepared to try to win votes for their resolution by including a provision for a cease-fire in Korea at the start of negotiations for a settlement of Far Eastern problems.

Secretary of State Acheson gave Congressional leaders assurances that no formal agreements were contemplated between the United States and France as a result of French Premier Plevin's forthcoming visit to Washington.

The Bonn regime was threatened by repercussions resulting from the agreement sponsored by Chancellor Adenauer giving West German trade unions an equal voice in the management of the steel and coal industries.

Early Registrations Indicate Several Courses

Early registrations at The Pennsylvania State College Evening Class Center indicates that courses will be given in beginning and advanced typing and shorthand, beginning and advanced engineering drawing, supervisory training, speech, industrial psychology, business aspects of contracting and problems of building construction according to Alfred E. Lewis, local administrative head.

A great deal of interest has been shown in the course in supervisory training which teaches the fundamentals of foremanship primarily through the medium of visual aids. This training enables foreman and potential foreman to learn the basic fundamentals of good foremanship with a minimum of outside study.

Many inquiries regarding typing, shorthand and engineering drawing have been made by persons not now employed who feel that they will be asked to volunteer their services in the expanding war effort.

While registrations will be taken at the Bristol high school Monday and Thursday evenings from seven to nine p. m., college officials strongly urge that anyone interested in better qualifying himself for new jobs in industry, register not later than Monday night in order to expedite the initiation of classes. The second semester starts on Monday night, February 5th, and will continue for a period of 16 weeks.

Mild Weather Halts Moving of Dwelling

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Jan. 27 — The dwelling of Thomas Maddock has been left without a foundation on which to sit due to the warm weather and thawing ground.

The big frame house stood for 125 years on a plot of ground here which is now a part of the Washington Crossing State Park, just a short distance north of the approach to the Delaware River bridge. The house was recently sold to Maddock. He was told to move it out of the park to privately owned ground. He selected a site about a mile and a half down the River Road and contracted with a house mover to take the house there. After the house had been gotten off its old foundations and partway onto the road, the weather turned warm, the ground started to thaw and operations had to be halted. Work will have to wait now until the ground freezes hard enough to permit completion of the moving job.

FARM FOLKS ARE REPUBLIC'S "BEDROCK"

So Dr. Kenneth Hood, of State College, Informs Agriculturists

INTEGRITY THE SAME

BUCKINGHAM, Jan. 27 — "Farming is one of the few great American ways of living in which the tradition of initiative and the integrity of the people have not changed," said Dr. Kenneth Hood, State College extension economist, speaking at the annual meeting of the Bucks County Agricultural Extension meeting, here, Tuesday afternoon, also quoting an Englishman as saying, "America, out there on your farms is the bedrock of your republic."

Speaking to more than 300 men and women, who attended the morning and afternoon sessions, Dr. Hood said: "Farming is one of the most stabilizing influences in our nation which keep it from going too fast and too far at the same time."

"Farmers will get as far as they are willing and able to take themselves. Farmers must strive to improve their leadership and leave the woodpile a little higher than they found it."

"We now realize that 90 per cent of all we produce is sold on the open market. Farming is the largest single industry in the United States. There are 9 million small businesses in the country and six million are farmers. Roughly, one-third of the entire population is farming for a living."

"The dairy industry contains 16 per cent of the total farm business, and 40 per cent in Pennsylvania. We look to farmers for 65 per cent of the raw materials in industrial production."

Dr. Hood explained how the soy bean, which used to have two purposes—cover crop and cow food—now has 13 basic uses in industry. Scientists now are working

Arrest Trevoze Man For Enticing Minors

PHILA., Jan. 27 — Alleging that he had enticed more than two dozen girl students to pose for him in the nude, a Trevoze man was taken into custody yesterday by police. The arrest was made at the Frankford High School by detectives of the Juvenile Division of the Bureau of Police.

George H. Kistner, of East End ave., a bookkeeper employed by a ship chandler company at Front and Walnut sts., will be arraigned today in Central Station charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and possessing immoral pictures.

A month ago officials of the Philadelphia Board of Education received complaints from parents of girl students at Frankford High School who said their daughters told them men had been approaching them at the school and offering them between $50 and $100 to pose for photographs. Promises of opportunity to go to Hollywood accompanied the offers, they said.

Yesterday they observed a man they identified as Kistner approach about a dozen girls. They seized Kistner and took him into the school where he was identified by 27 girls, the detectives said, as having approached them. Several of the girls admitted having posed for Kistner.

A quantity of immoral pictures was found in Kistner's possession, the detectives said.

THE WAR

By Howard Handleman

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Jan. 27 — (INS) — Two columns of a double-pronged Eighth Army offensive linked up above Suwon Saturday and sent far-ranging spearheads north toward Seoul.

Field dispatches reported the linkup and a daring commando raid at the Red-held capital's port of Inchon by South Korean marines, but elements of the main Chinese forces below Seoul fought back fiercely and despite staggering losses re-took ground in the rear of one column.

International News Service war correspondent Lee Ferrero said the newly-linked up task forces sent spearheads up the main west coast highway above Suwon, which is only 17 miles from Seoul.

Eighth Army censors deleted from his dispatch the exact distance from the capital to which advance spearheads reached.

Ferrero reported, however, that one of the deepest penetrations was to "south of Anyang," which is less than eight miles from Seoul.

Artillery and air strikes continued to pave a path of fire ahead of the tank-supported infantry in the third day of a limited offensive.

But despite a hail of air and ground fire, Chinese troops retook a high ridge north of Kumsangjang.

Red Cross Group Hears of Work of The Motor Corps

LIST APPOINTMENTS

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 27 — An unusually large representation of board members, and interested volunteers, were present at the recent bi-monthly meeting of the Lower Bucks Branch, Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The Community Nurses Association building was the meeting place on Monday when the guest speaker was Mrs. Martin Sommers, Chapter Chairman of Motor Corps from Headquarters in Philadelphia. Mrs. Sommers gave an interesting audience pertinent facts about Red Cross Motor Corps operation, including regulations, type of assignments, etc. Highlighting her remarks with humorous episodes, she summarized for her audience, many of whom were either qualified or potential Red Cross Motor Corps drivers, the place of Motor Corps with relation to the other services.

"Veteran business," she stated, "takes precedence" — explaining that Red Cross supplies transportation to the serviceman unable to use public means of transportation, making it possible for him to attend sporting events and theaters.

She stressed, also, the importance of a branch like Lower Bucks County, and the importance of the WAC, or call Bristol 811.

HOOTED SCIENCE
Russia has the world's best chess players, partly because they are subsidized by the government, partly because chess is almost the only realm of thought that still remains free under Stalin. Literature, history, science and music must all be checked against the party line.

Those who fail to keep up with its twists and turns must abjectly recant or face loss of their jobs, their privileges, their liberty, and even of their lives.
Science becomes sterile without skepticism—the right to challenge even an axiom, the right to think freely. So do the arts. Applied science may do better, but application eventually falters unless it can draw upon a continuously renewed flow of pure science.

Boasts that Russians invented everything from the telephone to television can hardly offset scientific backwardness when scientists are hogtied by imposed dogma. But in chess a Russian grand master can make any legal move without being accused of Trotskyism or bourgeois deviationism. That is why Russian chess flourishes while science and art lag.

The Russians themselves seem to be becoming aware of this. The Soviet magazine Culture and Life recently carried an article by a scientist named Yuri Zhdanov attacking dogmatism in science as an enemy of progress. A year ago he would have been sent to Siberia for publishing such an article.

Now he also gets away with attacking the hitherto sacred theories of Michurin, on which the "Marxist biology" of Lysenko is based. Some of Russia's best biologists have died for opposing Lysenko's theories.

It is absurd to say that Russia's policies never change. They are always changing, but some of their worst aspects are never abandoned for a long period. Zhdanov's article undoubtedly heralds a shift in the official bolshevik attitude toward science, but it will not usher in a new era in which scientists will be as free as chess players. Stalinism is committed to a system in which all theory must be imposed from above. It could not escape if it tried.

SAFEGUARDING MUSEUMS
Museums in the large cities of the country are studying the question of protecting their collections from a possible enemy attack. The New York Museum of Art has begun crating valuable objects in preparation for hiding them.

The committee of trustees of the Chicago Art Institute has been working on a defense project for some months but the institute's collection remains intact. A committee of the American Association of Museums is working on the problem of safeguarding art and other treasures.

Since the destruction of the museum in Hamburg, Germany, in the late war, the Natural History Museum of Chicago has No. 1 collections in a number of fields, according to Col. Clifford C. Gregg, director. Plans are being made to protect many irreplaceable objects in an emergency.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Jan. 27 — Students and faculty of St. Mary's Hall, are anticipating a delightful evening tonight when the St. Mary's Hall glee club will have Miss Gloria Perkins, a brilliant young violinist as its guest artist at its concert.

BENSALEM UPSET BY NESHAMINY WINNING 48 TO 46

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 27 — Neshaminy High scored the biggest upset of the season last night as it beat Bensalem Township High, 48-46, on the Owl's floor. It was the fifth win of the season for Coach "Jim" Egli's team which is composed mostly of sophomores.

Bensalem had a 24-21 lead at half-time after Neshaminy took a 13-10 edge at the first quarter. The Redskins were ahead of Bensalem, 40-31, at the close of the third session. Bensalem crept up in the final quarter but Neshaminy managed to keep in front by a small margin. It had a 47-46 lead but as the game ended Franklin Lex was fouled to score the final tally of the tilt.

WARRIORS LOSE CHANCE TO KEEP LEAGUE HONORS

TRENTON, Jan. 27 — Bristol High's hopes of retaining the Lower Bucks County League championship faded last night as it was nosed out by the Pennsbury High contingent, 35-33, on the Parker School floor. It was the second league defeat for the Warriors and first league triumph for the Falcons.

It was Ted Mark's fielder with less than four minutes to be played that gave Pennsbury the victory. Andy Accardi had tied up the tilt for Bristol by converting a foul shot, making the count, 32-32. Marks then stood near the center mark of the floor and let loose with a set shot. The ball hit the rim and bounced three feet into the air. When it came down, it went right through the netting for a field goal.

Gov't Blankets Nation With Price and Wage Controls

enforcement officer. Hoover's explanation was that his job had been "completed," but another source said the Admiral objected to the appointment of so many Democrats to posts in the mobilization machinery for purely political reasons.

The price freeze is only temporary on most foods and some clothing and further price increases can be expected in these fields. Beef, Veal and Lamb are among the few food items firmly frozen at this time.

Further increases can be expected in such items as poultry, fresh fruits and vegetables, cotton, wool, corn, wheat, milk and eggs.

Until these commodities reach the parity price set by the government price controls can not go into action under the defense production law.

A spokesman for the stabilization agency predicted that a climb to parity for these foods will raise the overall retail cost of eating another five percent.

World War II OPA Chief Chester Bowles greeted the freeze order with a slap at the government for failing to roll prices back farther than Jan. 25.

Another man who held the same job, Paul Porter, declared that the control order contains some "iniquities" and that the government will have a "rough job" keeping sellers and consumers happy.

The American meat industry warned that the meat freeze will spawn more blackmarkets than controls in World War II with the companion evils of unsanitary meat and the loss of valuable by-products such as the healing extracts from medicinal glands.

Since cotton and wool are in great demand for the armed services for defense they were exempted to stimulate production and expand imports.

Wage stabilizer Cyrus S. Ching faced some of the toughest problems growing out of the order. He said his wage stabilization board will immediately begin working out a "flexible" wage formula making certain "exceptions" to the pay freeze and paying the way for some adjustments.

Untouched by the order were fees and prices for professional services, rents, real estate prices and reading matter, and rates for insurance, radio and television advertising, public utilities and common carriers.

President Truman called on the FBI and all government agencies to assist in carrying out the controls. Economic stabilizer Eric Johnston said enforcement would be everybody's job but added, "we don't want an army of snoopers around."

Demand for adjustment are expected from workers whose wages are geared to the rise and fall of the cost-of-living index. For the time being, these contracts, covering virtually the entire auto industry, are suspended.

Ching said the wage freeze means the hard coal contract signed by John L. Lewis a few hours after the effective date of the regulation can not take effect until the board approves. The contract calls for a $1.60 a day pay hike.

Other workers have not shared in recent wage increases and officials indicated some action will have to be taken on that score. Disalle's price order freeze prices at the highest levels between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25. This meant no roll-back because the highest prices recently established were on Jan. 25.

Some price rollbacks are expected later as the government studies individual price cases and begins ordering separate commodity ceilings and margin regulations for dealers.

Prices charged by processors, wholesalers and retailers are frozen but some increase will be permitted later as farm products rise to parity.

Disalle said the freeze did not apply at the farm level to raw products which are still bringing the farmer less than parity prices.

IN BASEBALL'S HALL OF FAME

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 27 — (INS) — Jimmy Foxx, whose magic bat rapped out 534 home runs during his baseball career, said today he was "delighted at the great honor" of being named to baseball's hall of fame. The 43-year-old ex-player for the Athletics and Phillies is now salesman for a trucking firm in Doylestown.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

This is the fourth of a series of ten

What About "Induced" Radioactivity?

EXPLOSIVE RADIOACTIVITY CAN'T BE KEPT OUT OF THE UPPER FLOORS OF YOUR HOUSE, SO LEARN WHAT TO EXPECT FROM IT

IF AN atomic bomb goes off in the air within two-thirds of a mile or slightly more of your home, there is no practical way of keeping explosive radioactivity out of the above-ground part of your house. It is possible that, at very short range, artificial, or induced radioactivity could be set up in gold, silver, and many other objects. However, this kind of radioactivity will never offer great danger, so don't throw away bandages and other first aid materials in the medicine cabinet. They will be perfectly safe to use.

EVEN CANNED AND BOTTLED FOODS MAY BE IRRADIATED, BUT IT WILL STILL BE SAFE TO USE THEM

Naturally, the radioactivity that passes through the walls of your house won't be stopped by tin or glass. It can go right through canned and bottle foods. However, this will not make them dangerous, and it will not cause them to spoil. Go ahead and use them, provided the containers are not broken open.

What About "Radiation Sickness"?

VOMITING AND DIARRHEA ARE THE FIRST SIGNS OF RADIATION SICKNESS

Should you be caught upstairs or in the open at the time of a bombing, you might soak up a serious dose of explosive radioactivity. Even so, the first indication that you had been pierced by the rays, you might be sick at your stomach and begin to vomit. However, likely would get sick at your stomach for other reasons, too, so vomiting won't always mean you have radiation sickness.

EVEN IF YOU SHOULD GET SEVERE RADIATION SICKNESS, YOU WOULD HAVE BETTER THAN AN EVEN CHANCE OF RECOVERY
